RESEARCH INTO THE PATERNAL LINE

OF

GEORGE VALE OF AYLESBURY, BUCKINGHAMSHIRE

1913-1989

OVERVIEW

The paternal line of George Vale of Aylesbury, Buckinghamshire has been traced back to the small Herefordshire village of Eye in the early 19th century. The family has proved to be very mobile moving to and fro across the English/Welsh border before undertaking more significant migrations first to Merthyr Tydfil in the late 19th century and then to Aylesbury, Buckinghamshire in the 1920s/30s.

To date the earliest ancestor traced is John Vale son of William Vale, farmer, who appears from information gleaned from census returns of 1841 and 1851 to have been born in Eye in Herefordshire around 1819. John married Isabella Duggan daughter of James Duggan, farmer, at Old Radnor Parish Church on 10 August 1840. At this time both John and Isabella were living in the Horse and Jockey, Walton, Old Radnor, Radnorshire where they were employed as servants.

According to census returns the couple went on to have nine children between 1840 and 1859 : Thomas Duggan (born 1840), Ann (born c.1843), Mary (born c.1846), Emma (born c.1850), John (born c.1852), Isabella (born c.1854), George (born c.1856), James (born c.1858) and Charles (born c.1859). During this period the couple moved from Old Radnor across the border to Huntingdon, Herefordshire and then on to Abbey Dore in the same county. As they moved their financial situation improved. After working as an agricultural labourer for over twenty years, by 1871 John Vale has become a tenant farmer tending to twenty three acres.

Thomas Duggan Vale eldest son of John and Isabella was born on 21 September 1840 in Walton, Old Radnor. He is still living in the parish with his parents in 1861 and, like his father, is employed as an agricultural labourer. However, by the time of his marriage to Hannah Maria Sawyer he too has moved across the border into Herefordshire. His marriage certificate dated 26 July 1865 reveals that the wedding took place in the bride's parish church, St. Peters, Hanley Castle, Worcestershire. Thomas Duggan is now living in Kington, Herefordshire and is employed as a policeman.

By 1871 the couple and their three sons, John (born c.1866), Thomas Duggan jnr (born c.1869) and William (born 20 July 1870) are living in Kingstone, Herefordshire and Thomas Duggan is working as a butcher. The couple remained in the town and prospered moving first to Corner House (1881) and then High House (1891). According to the census returns their family expanded over the years to include Charles (born c.1872), Elizabeth (born c.1873), Annie Isabella (born c.1875) and Emma (born c.1877). By 1911 Thomas Duggan, aged 70 and a widower is living alone in Kingstone as both Hannah Maria and his second wife Eliza Alice (nee Parry married 1899) have died. According to the enumerators report he had fathered twelve children of whom seven are still living in 1911.

William Vale, the third son of Thomas Duggan and Isabella was born on 20 July 1870. He and his older brother Thomas Duggan jnr. were living with their parents in Kingstone in 1871 and 1881. It has proved impossible to trace them in the 1891 census but by 1901 both brothers are living in Merthyr Tydfil, Glamorganshire. By the 1870s agriculture, the principal employer in Herefordshire, was in decline whilst in Merthyr the advent of coal mining in the south of the town had given renewed impetus to the local economy following the decline of the iron industry. It may well have been economic forces, therefore, that encouraged William and Thomas to move to Merthyr arriving in the town at some point between 1881 and 1901. They were not alone. The population of Merthyr mushroomed after 1870 reaching a peak of 80,990 in 1911. The massive growth of the town led to its grant of borough status in 1908. New mining communities developed at Treharris, Bedlinog and Merthyr Vale where, according to the census William was living in 1901. He and his brother Thomas Duggan jnr, who by this time is married with a daughter, are residing at 1, South View Terrace, Merthyr Vale and are employed as hewers at the coal mine.

William married Adelaide (recorded as Ann on the wedding certificate) George (nee Hughes) on 6 January 1902 at Merthyr Tydfil Register Office. This was Adelaide's second marriage. Her first husband Ezekiel George (married 1892) had died in 1899 and she had been left a widow with three children (Mary Annie, Charlotte and William Henry) to support on her own. Sadly the couple's fourth child, born posthumously and named Ezekiel for his father died as an infant in 1900. William and Adelaide had four children: Bronwen (born 1905 died 1913), Reginald (born 1906), Lizzie (born 1909) and George (born 2 November 1913). In 1911 two years before George's birth the family are living at 24, Mount Pleasant, Merthyr Vale and William and his stepson William Henry George are both working at the coal mine.

George and his older brother Reginald did not remain in Merthyr. The steel and coal industries that had brought prosperity and employment to the town began to decline after World War I. By 1932 more than 80% of the men in Dowlais, Merthyr were unemployed. The town experienced an out-migration of 27,000 people in the 1920s and 1930s including the Vale brothers.

By 1935 George was living in Aylesbury, Buckinghamshire and employed in the town's printing industry. It was here that he met and married Blanche Biswell. The couple went on to have five children: Shirley (born 1935), Alan (born 1939), Roger (born and died 1942), Bronwyn (born 1945) and Danny (born 1950).

George Vale died in Aylesbury in July 1989 at the age of seventy five.

Recommendations for further research

In order to build on this foundation report into the paternal lineage of George Vale I suggest that the registers of Eye, Herefordshire and surrounding parishes be investigated for the baptism of John Vale son of William Vale circa 1819.
(Parish Registers held at Herefordshire Archives)

In addition it would be worthwhile investigating the parish records of Eye to discover if the family were native to the parish and their standing within the community.

It might also be useful to discover dates of death and places of burial for John, Thomas Duggan and William Vale.
